- Homes in Longview, Gilmer, and Gladewater are sitting on the market longer, which means buyers have more time, more choices, and more room to ask for help with closing costs.

FOR REALTORS

What This Means for Your Clients

- In Longview, the median price is $266,921 and homes sit about 76 days. That is a lot of time to shop without rushing.
- In Gilmer and Gladewater, prices run closer to $210,000 to $220,000 and days on market stretch past 70 days. Affordable and slow moving is a great combo for buyers.
- With the average median price across all three cities around $232,098, a 5% down payment is about $11,605. That is a number many first time buyers can reach.
- If your Realtor has a client who got pre-approved 60 or more days ago, now is the time to send them back for a rate check. A lot can change in 60 days.

LOAN SPOTLIGHT

FHA Loans: A Real Path for First Time Buyers

- FHA loans let you put as little as 3.5% down. On a $232,098 home, that is about $8,123. Much easier to save for than 20%.
- Your credit does not have to be perfect. FHA is built for real people, not just people with spotless credit files.
- FHA loans are backed by the government, so lenders take on less risk. That often means easier approval for buyers who are just starting out.
- If you know someone who thinks they cannot qualify for a home loan, an FHA loan might surprise them. Have them reach out and we will take a look together.
